

INFORMATION GATHERING VS. DECISION-MAKING

Tip: In information-gathering questions, think broadly and gather key details. In decision-making questions, weigh the options carefully and prioritize client safety and well-being

Information-Gathering	Decision-Making
Focuses on What you need to know	Focuses on What you need to do
Involves Asking questions and gathering data	Involves Analyzing information and choosing actions
Requires attention to Context, history, and risk factors	Requires attention to Ethical guidelines, next steps, and best practices
Helps you Build a case conceptualization	Helps you Make an informed decision
